ATTORNEYS AT LAW

1 INTRODUCTION

2 Plaintiffs' requested hold separate is nonsensical in that it would require Anheuser-Busch
3 InBev NV/SA ("ABI") to "hold separate" assets that it does not hold at all because it divested
4 them. Further, it is moot because the hold separate it seeks to enforce expired upon that very same 5 divestiture.

7 In response to a merger challenge from the Department of Justice Antitrust Division
8 ("DOJ"), Defendants revised their agreements to enable Constellation Brands, Inc.
9 ("Constellation") to acquire the entire U.S. business of Grupo Modelo S.A.B. de C.V. ("Modelo")
10 and resolve DOJ's concerns. That settlement, once entered by the United States District Court for 11 the District of Columbia ("D.D.C."), permitted ABI to complete its acquisition of Modelo but 12 ordered that ABI "hold separate" the assets comprising the U.S. business of Modelo until they 13 could be divested to Constellation. Now that the divestiture has occurred and Constellation owns 14 the assets, there is nothing left to hold separate.

16 The Plaintiffs' Motion for Injunction Seeking "Hold Separate" Order ("Motion") further 17 requests enforcement of the hold separate order entered by D.D.C. as part of the settlement to the 18 DOJ challenge. That required relief is now moot. By its terms, that order's hold separate 19 requirements remained in force only until the assets were sold to Constellation. That order's 20 requirements operate in the same manner as all hold separate orders routinely entered in the 21 context of merger challenges. Plaintiffs' failure to observe the plain reading of D.D.C.'s order, or 22 to heed decades of merger enforcement practice, needlessly burdens this Court with a request that 23 cannot be granted.

25 Plaintiffs fail to meet the legal standards to secure a hold separate. The Court repeatedly 26 pointed to Plaintiffs' deficiencies at the hearing on Plaintiffs' Motion for a Temporary 27 Restraining Order ("TRO"). As the Court stated, "At this time we have what is on its face a 28 legitimate transaction that does not result in ABI acquiring the U.S. distribution of competing

1 beer” (Ex. 1, TRO Hr’g Tr.56:18-20, June 4, 2013) and that the Plaintiffs must overcome a
 2 “difficult hurdle” to show otherwise (Ex. 1, Hr’g Tr. 56:2.1). Plaintiffs did not make any showing
 3 that the divestiture transaction was a fraud or sham during the TRO hearing, and without such 4 showing Plaintiffs’ had no likelihood of success. Plaintiffs still do not offer any evidence showing 5 they have met any of the elements required to obtain injunctive relief.

6 7 STATEMENT OF THE ISSUES TO BE DECIDED

8 Where the assets that are the subject of Plaintiffs’ Motion for Injunction Seeking “Hold 9 Separate” already have been divested and where that Motion fails to meet any of this Court’s
 10 requirements for injunctive relief, should Plaintiffs’ Motion be denied summarily?

11 12 STATEMENT OF FACTS

13 On June 29, 2012, Defendants announced a set of transactions whereby ABI would have 14 acquired the remainder of Modelo that it did not own already, and Constellation would acquire 15 Modelo’s interest in the entity wholly and solely responsible for importation and sale of Modelo’s
 16 beer in the United States, Crown Imports LLC (“Crown”). (Second Amended and Supplemental 17 Compl. (“SAC”), ECF. No. 63, ¶ 27.) This set of transactions was investigated by DOJ for seven 18 months. On January 31, 2013, DOJ sued to block ABI’s acquisition of Modelo alleging the 19 acquisition would violate Clayton Act § 7. (SAC ¶¶ 28 and 49.)

20
 21 On February 14, 2013, ABI and Constellation announced a restructured transaction
 22 whereby Constellation would acquire not only Modelo’s interest in Crown, but also a perpetual
 23 license to sell the Modelo brands in the United States and a brewery, Piedras Negras, (collectively 24 the “Divestiture Assets”) so that Constellation could self-supply. (SAC ¶¶ 28, 29.) After an 25 additional two months of investigation, on April 19, 2013, DOJ, ABI, Modelo, and Constellation
 26 announced a settlement of DOJ’s litigation, by which DOJ approved the restructured transaction
 27 documents in substantially the same form in which ABI and Constellation negotiated them.
 28

1 United States v. Anheuser-Busch InBev SA/NV, No. 13-127 (D.D.C. filed Apr. 19, 2013), ECF
2 Nos. 29-31.<sup>1</sup>

4 The settlement with DOJ aims to “preserve[] the current structure of the beer market in the 5 United States by maintaining an independent brewer with an incentive to resist ABI’s price
6 leadership to expand share” through the creation of “an independent and economically viable
7 competitor that will stand in the shoes of Modelo in the United States.” (Ex. 2, Competitive
8 Impact Statement (“CIS”) 10.) To effectuate this purpose, the proposed Final Judgment (“PFJ”)
9 seeks, among other things, “the prompt and certain divestiture” of the U.S. Modelo business and 10 obligates ABI “to use its best efforts to divest the Divestiture Assets as expeditiously as possible”
11 (Ex. 3, PFJ Preamble and IV.B.) Further, the Stipulation and Order explicitly stated that 12 Defendants’ “Hold Separate and Asset Preservation,” obligations, specified in Sections VI, VII, 13 VIII, and IX, were to remain in effect until ABI completed the sale of the Divestiture Assets or 14 until further order of D.D.C. (Ex. 4, Stipulation and Order (“S&O”) Section X.)

16 ABI completed its acquisition of Modelo on June 4, 2013. (Ex. 5, Hetterich Decl. ¶ 8.)
17 ABI sold the Divestiture Assets to Constellation on June 7 (Ex. 5, Hetterich Decl. ¶ 9), thereby
18 terminating the Hold Separate and Asset Preservation obligations of the Stipulation and Order
19 (Ex. 4, S&O X).

21 Since June 7, Constellation has begun integration of the newly acquired assets. (Ex. 5, 22 Hetterich Decl. ¶¶ 12-17.) The former Modelo and Crown personnel are being transferred to

23 <sup>1</sup> The settlement documents, including the Competitive Impact Statement, proposed Final 24 Judgment, Stipulation and Order, and Revised Agreements, filed in D.D.C., were attached as 25 Exhibits 1 through 4 to the Alberti Declaration, which was included with Constellation’s Request
26 for Judicial Notice filed in connection with its Motion To Dismiss the SAC. (ECF No. 64.) As 27 explained more fully in the Request for Judicial Notice, the Court may take judicial notice of 28 these documents because they are official government documents of public record and are directly related to the allegations in the SAC. See In re High-Tech Emp. Antitrust Litig., 856 F.
Supp. 2d 1103, 1108 (N.D. Cal. 2012); Paralyzed Veterans of Am. v. McPherson, No. C 06-4670, 2008 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 69542, at *17-18 (N.D. Cal. Sept. 8, 2008). Constellation therefore respectfully asks this Court to take judicial notice of the settlement documents, including the revised transaction agreements.

1 Constellation’s compensation and benefits plans. (Id. at ¶ 12.) Constellation has commenced
2 integration of all back-office activities across the entire combined company, including
3 information technology, financial reporting, cash management and other treasury functions,
4 procurement, and other supply chain activities. (Id. at ¶ 14.) Constellation has established a new 5 organizational structure, and has taken irreversible steps that affect its tax obligations going
6 forward. (Id.) Constellation has begun operating the Piedras Negras brewery, including activities
7 related to its expansion in compliance with the PFJ. (Id. at ¶¶ 16-17.) Moreover, Constellation is 8 managing the Divestiture Assets free of influence from ABI to ensure their vigorous competition
9 in the U.S. beer industry. (Id. at ¶¶ 18-24.)

10
11 Constellation’s actions come as no surprise to Plaintiffs given the well-publicized nature
12 of the ABI/Constellation transaction. Despite the months of press following the June 2012
13 announcement of the initial set of transactions, Plaintiffs delayed filing this case until March 14 2013, more than a month after the restructured transaction was announced. (ECF No. 1.) Plaintiffs 15 delayed nearly five weeks more before filing the First Amended Complaint (“FAC”) in which 16 they first named Constellation as a Defendant. On June 3, 2013, Constellation and ABI/Modelo
17 moved to dismiss the FAC; later that same evening Plaintiffs filed a Motion for a TRO. (ECF
18 Nos. 40-43.)

20 By the time of the hearing on Plaintiffs’ TRO (“TRO hearing”) on June 4, the 21 ABI/Modelo transaction had closed that morning and the parties were operating under the Hold 22 Separate and Preservation obligations of the Stipulation and Order. (Ex. 5, Hetterich Decl. ¶ 9; 23 Ex. 4, S&O VI-X.) Plaintiffs knew that the ABI/Modelo transaction had closed and noted during 24 the hearing that the sale of the Divestiture Assets to Constellation was scheduled for June 7. (Ex.
25 1, Hr’g Tr. 7:8-15.) However, Plaintiffs waited to file this Motion until June 28, the same day that 26 Defendants filed Motions to Dismiss the SAC, which had been filed three days earlier. (ECF Nos.
27 63-68.)

1 The hearing date for Plaintiffs' Motion is August 2, nearly two months after the 2 completion of Constellation's acquisition of the Divestiture Assets and the termination of the 3 Hold Separate and Preservation obligations from United States v. Anheuser-Busch InBev SA/NV.
 4 (ECF No. 60.)

6 ARGUMENT

7 Because of objections to ABI's acquisition of Modelo's U.S. business, DOJ required ABI
 8 to hold separate Modelo's U.S. business between the time of ABI's acquisition of Modelo and the 9 divestiture of that business to Constellation. The purpose of D.D.C.'s hold separate was to isolate
 10 and preserve Modelo's U.S. business until the divestiture to Constellation could be accomplished.
 11 Ordering a hold separate allows a primary transaction to close while allowing for an efficient
 12 future divestiture. In situations where, as here, the assets already have been divested by the firm 13 whose acquisition raised potential competitive concerns, a hold separate is nonsensical.

15 I. PLAINTIFFS' MOTION FOR A HOLD SEPARATE ORDER IS UNTIMELY AND 16 AN INAPPROPRIATE FORM OF RELIEF.

17 As with their earlier TRO application, Plaintiffs seek relief to which they are not entitled.
 18 A hold separate has no operative effect when the contested assets have already been divested.
 19 Plaintiffs here ask the Court to impose an order requiring Defendants to comply with the hold 20 separate provisions of the D.D.C. when Defendants have already completed their hold separate 21 obligations under that order by completing the sale of the Divestiture Assets to Constellation.
 22 Even if a hold separate were an appropriate and available form of relief, Plaintiffs again fail to 23 meet the standard for securing injunctive relief.

25 A. A Hold Separate Would Be Ineffectual.

26 A hold separate order is "in form and effect a preliminary restraint," that permits a 27 challenged transaction to go forward while preserving certain acquired assets as a separate and 28

1 independent entity. FTC v. Weyerhaeuser, 665 F.2d 1072, 1075 n.7, 1084 (D.C. Cir. 1981)
 2 (emphasis added).

 4 In a pending litigation, a hold separate allows a proposed transaction to close while 5 maintaining certain acquired assets as a viable competitor managed independently from the 6 acquirer's competing business, so that they may be divested effectively should the plaintiff
 7 ultimately prove that the buyer's acquisition and operation of the assets violates the law. FTC v.
 8 Weyerhaeuser Co., 665 F.2d at 1075 n.7; see e.g., FTC v. Exxon Corp., 636 F.2d 1336, 1344
 9 (D.C. Cir. 1980); United States v. Hughes Tool Co., 415 F. Supp. 637, 638 (C.D. Cal. 1976).

 11 A hold separate is an appropriate form of relief where the challenged transaction has not 12 yet been completed, the parties resist an antitrust challenge to their transaction, and the need for a 13 divestiture of the overlapping assets creating the competitive areas of concern remains in 14 question. ABI already has sold the entirety of that business to Constellation. Nothing remains to 15 be "held" separate.

16
 17 1. There is nothing for ABI to hold separate because it already divested
 18 Modelo's U.S. business.

19 Plaintiffs know that ABI completed its acquisition of Modelo and that Constellation
 20 completed its acquisition of Modelo's U.S. business. (Ex. 1, Hr'g Tr. 7:8-15 (Mr. Alioto: "We did
 21 receive and did see the news release that went out this morning [that the ABI/Modelo transaction
 22 settled.] However, in that very same news release it points out in the very last sentence that the 23 related transaction with regards to Constellation, including the sale of the brewery, the 50 percent
 24 differential with Modelo, the stake in Crown, and the so-called perpetual rights are not expected
 25 to close until June the 7th, which would be in two or three days."); Ex. 5, Hetterich Decl. ¶¶ 8-9.)
 26 Yet, Plaintiffs' SAC and this Motion, both filed after the TRO hearing and the June 7 closing, fail 27 to acknowledge Constellation's completed acquisition of Modelo's U.S. business. (SAC ¶ 3 at p.
 28 30 ("the defendants have taken action to consummate their merger"); Motion 9:19-21

1 (“Defendants have already taken steps to consummate their acquisition of Modelo and the 2 Revised Agreement between ABI and Constellation.”).) The Defendants have not just taken steps
3 to consummate the merger—they have completed all of the steps: ABI acquired Modelo and sold
4 the Divestiture Assets to Constellation.

6 In imprecisely recounting the facts, Plaintiffs hope to make available a hold separate as a
7 form of relief by implying that ABI has not completed the divestiture to Constellation. Plaintiffs 8 say that ABI will sell Crown to Constellation. (Motion 8:6-7.) The sale closed on June 7, 2013.
9 Plaintiffs say that ABI also will sell Piedras Negras and the U.S. license to Constellation. (Motion 10 8:10-11.) This also closed on June 7. Plaintiffs say that ABI will provide services as required by 11 the DOJ-approved Transition Services Agreement and Interim Supply Agreement. (Motion 8:12-12 21.) These services are underway. Despite these facts, Plaintiffs assert that a hold separate “would 13 preserve the economic viability of [the Divestiture Assets] during the pendency of these 14 proceedings” and “would make eventual divestiture a more feasible remedy.” (Motion 12:10-14.)
15 However, neither assertion holds because Plaintiffs omit the fundamental fact: ABI already has 16 sold the Divestiture Assets to Constellation.

18 Perhaps recognizing that misstating the facts will not turn back the clock, Plaintiffs 19 attempt to transform a hold separate into a time machine. Plaintiffs quote FTC v. Whole Foods
20 Market, Inc., 548 F.3d 1028 (D.C. Cir. 2008), in support of the proposition that a hold separate 21 can “restore the status quo ante.” (Motion 11:19-23.) However, the non-binding opinion in Whole
22 Foods actually states that a hold separate is a means to preserve the status quo nunc. Whole 23 Foods, 548 F.3d at 1034. The opinion recognized that courts “perhaps also [retain the power] to 24 restore the status quo ante,” through their other equity powers. Id.

26 Defendants agreed to divestiture to resolve DOJ’s competitive concerns. The assets
27 Plaintiffs seek to have held separate from ABI—Modelo’s U.S. business—are permanently 28 separate from ABI because they are now owned and controlled by Constellation. While it is

1 unclear what Plaintiffs are actually aiming to accomplish with the Motion, one legal principle is
 2 clear: given the procedural posture of the matter, a hold separate is not a form of relief available
 3 to Plaintiffs.

 5 2. Plaintiffs Seek Compliance with Hold Separate Provisions That Are No
 6 Longer Operative.

7 Plaintiffs request that Defendants hold their assets separate and apart “as provided by” the 8 obligations in Sections VI-X of the Stipulation and Order. (Motion 1:6-10.) Elsewhere, Plaintiffs
 9 request “a hold separate order as outlined in” the Stipulation and Order. (Motion 17:17-19.) Yet a
 10 plain reading of those sections shows Plaintiffs’ fallacy: “Defendants’ obligations under Section 11 VI, VII, VIII and IX [the Hold Separate and Preservation Obligations] of this Stipulation and 12 Order shall remain in effect until (1) consummation of the divestitures required by the proposed 13 Final Judgment or (2) until further order of the Court.” (Ex. 4, S&O X.) ABI and Constellation 14 have fully consummated the sale of Modelo’s U.S. business. (Ex. 5, Hetterich Decl. ¶ 9.) The 15 provisions with which Plaintiffs are asking Defendants to comply are no longer operative, and the 16 relief Plaintiffs seek is unavailable.<sup>2</sup>

 18 B. Plaintiffs Once Again Fail to Meet the Standard for Injunctive Relief.

19 Plaintiffs already failed in their effort to secure a TRO because they did not meet their 20 burden for injunctive relief. Even if a hold separate were an available form of relief at this point
 21 in time, Plaintiffs again fail to meet their burden.

 23 As the Court stated at the TRO hearing, to obtain injunctive relief, Plaintiffs must make a 24 “clear showing” that: (1) they are likely to succeed on the merits; (2) they are likely to suffer

25
 26 <sup>2</sup> Any arguments by Plaintiffs suggesting that Defendants have not complied with the Antitrust
 27 Procedures and Penalties Act, 15 U.S.C. § 16(b)-(h), otherwise known as the Tunney Act, are 28 incorrect as a matter of law. Constellation explains the process of securing court approval of settlements in antitrust challenges to proposed transactions in more detail in its Motion to Dismiss the SAC. (ECF No. 64.) In short, the Tunney Act contains no prohibition to the consummation of the challenged transaction prior to entry of the Final Judgment.

1 irreparable harm in the absence of preliminary relief; (3) the balance of equities tips in their favor;
 2 and (4) an injunction is in the public interest. Winter v. NRDC, Inc., 555 U.S. 7, 22 (2008); (Ex. 1,
 3 Hr’g Tr. 56:3-8.) The Ninth Circuit follows a “sliding scale” approach that, while requiring that a
 4 plaintiff make a showing on all four Winter prongs, places emphasis on whether “serious
 5 questions going to the merits were raised and the balance of hardships tips sharply in the 6 plaintiff’s favor.” Alliance for the Wild Rockies v. Cottrell, 632 F.3d 1127, 1134-35 (9th Cir.
 7 2011) (quoting Lands Council v. McNair, 537 F.3d 981, 987 (9th Cir. 2008) (en banc)); see, e.g.,
 8 McCormack v. Hiedeman, 694 F.3d 1004, 1016 n.7 (9th Cir. 2012); Towery v. Brewer, 672 F.3d
 9 650, 657 (9th Cir. 2012); AT&T Mobility LLC v. Bernardi, Nos. C 11-03992 & C 11-04412, 2011
 10 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 124084, at *10 (N.D. Cal. Oct. 26, 2011).

11
 12 1. Plaintiffs mischaracterize the hold separate standard as something less 13 than what is needed for preliminary injunctive relief.

14 Plaintiffs attempt to lower the standard for injunctive relief that they must meet by citing 15 to three cases where hold separate orders issued “even when the plaintiff has failed to satisfy the 16 standards for preliminary injunction.” (Motion 10:17-19.) However, every case to which 17 Plaintiffs cite predates the Supreme Court’s decision in Winter. To obtain relief in the form of a 18 hold separate, a plaintiff must satisfy the prerequisites for preliminary injunctive relief. See 19 California v. American Stores Co., 872 F.2d 837, 844 (9th Cir. 1989), rev’d on other grounds, 20 495 U.S. 271 (1990). If a plaintiff fails to meet the standard for injunctive relief as required by 21 Winter, they cannot secure relief through a hold separate.

22
 23 2. Plaintiffs have offered no new evidence that would entitle them to 24 injunctive relief.

25 In denying the TRO, the Court found that Plaintiffs failed to show either a likelihood of 26 success on the merits or that the balance of equities tipped in their favor. (Ex. 1, Hr’g Tr. 55:24-27 59:4.) Plaintiffs have not offered any new evidence to show that they would be successful on 28

1 either of those prongs. Moreover, Plaintiffs also fail to establish that denial of injunctive relief
2 would result in irreparable harm and that a hold separate is in the public interest.

4 a. Plaintiffs have not shown a likelihood of success on the merits.

5 Plaintiffs fail to establish a likelihood of success on the merits of their Clayton Act § 7 6 claim. To establish a prima facie § 7 violation, Plaintiffs must show that “the merger would 7 produce a firm controlling an undue percentage share of the relevant market, and [would] result in 8 a significant increase in the concentration of firms in that market.” United States v. Oracle Corp., 9 331 F. Supp. 2d 1098, 1110 (N.D. Cal. 2004) (citations and internal alterations omitted).

11 Plaintiffs’ arguments that ABI’s acquisition of Modelo shares violates § 7 is premised on 12 the faulty conclusion that ABI—not Constellation—now controls Modelo’s U.S. business.
13 Furthermore, Plaintiffs’ reliance on United States v. Pabst Brewing Co., 384 U.S. 546 (1966), is 14 misguided. Far from being “on all fours,” Pabst involved a completely different set of facts.
15 There a beer brewer acquired a competitor resulting in a clear increase in concentration of beer
16 suppliers in Wisconsin. Id. at 550-53. ABI did not acquire a U.S. beer business, so there has been 17 no resulting increase in concentration.

19 Plaintiffs cannot meet their burden—and indeed are unlikely to succeed on the merits—as 20 they have no evidence to support their allegation that ABI has acquired Modelo’s U.S. business 21 because Constellation’s purchase of those assets was “fraudulent.” During the TRO hearing, the 22 Court readily observed Plaintiffs’ inability to demonstrate a likelihood of success on the merits of 23 their Complaint:

24 I’m more concerned about the plaintiff’s ability to show that [the ABI/Constellation
25 transaction] is a sham transaction. If it is not, then the plaintiff would be hard-pressed to 26 make the argument they’re making as to the anti-competitive effect. And the plaintiff’s
27 entire case is based on a showing that the purchaser of the . . . U.S. distribution of Corona 28 is a puppet, effectively, of Anheuser-Busch. And I’m not satisfied that that showing has been made to this point sufficient to meet the legal requirements for injunctive relief, which is what would be sought here.

1 (Ex. 1, Hr’g Tr. 10:21-11:7.) During an extended back-and-forth during which Plaintiffs
 2 continually failed to support their assertion of a “sham transaction,” the Court summarized
 3 Plaintiffs’ failure saying Defendants’ “whole point is we unloaded this division so we wouldn’t
 4 run into a problem and you are arguing it’s not really unloading it. It just looks that way
 5 superficially. And then the question is: What facts do you have to show that?” (Ex. 1, Hr’g Tr.
 6 35:17-20.)

 8 Plaintiffs could not make their showing then and have not improved their showing since.
 9 Plaintiffs, instead, have filed the SAC and two additional motions. In none of the new papers have 10 Plaintiffs offered any new facts in support of their assertions as to the validity of Constellation’s
 11 ownership of Modelo’s U.S. business.

12
 13 What Plaintiffs have offered in support of their Motion does not bear on the question of 14 whether Constellation is ABI’s “puppet.” Plaintiffs have cited to documents from a different
 15 litigation in support of the allegation that ABI waters down its beer. (Exs. D-G to Motion.)
 16 Plaintiffs have cited to a report from the American Antitrust Institute<sup>3</sup> (Ex. M to Motion) in 17 support of a proposition regarding the cost and quality of ABI’s beer over the last five years.
 18 (Motion 16:19-21.) Six of the Plaintiffs also offered declarations that, in addition to being 19 substantively identical, consist of ultimate conclusions with no factual basis or demonstration that 20 the declarants are competent to testify to their content. None of these offerings point to any facts
 21 showing that Constellation will be ABI’s “puppet” or that Constellation will not operate Modelo’s
 22 U.S. business independent of ABI.

23
 24 Plaintiffs further weaken their likelihood of success through propositions that run contrary
 25 to the legal standard of their claims. The Motion directly undermines their Sherman Act § 1 claim

26
 27 <sup>3</sup> At the TRO hearing, Plaintiffs pointed to the report’s relaying of market share information for 28 the U.S. beer industry. (Ex. 1, Hr’g Tr. 33:8-38:10.) The Court did not find the statistics informative, noting “The percentages themselves, in the absence of a showing of control of Constellation by ABI, again, is not necessarily problematic.” (Ex. 1, Hr’g Tr. 35:14-16.)

1 when it seeks “to prohibit the anticipated price-fixing among Constellation, Modelo, and ABI.”
2 (Motion 6:3-4.) To properly assert a § 1 claim, a plaintiff must allege a preceding agreement to 3 fix prices. Kendall v. Visa U.S.A., Inc., 518 F.3d 1042, 1046-47 (9th Cir. 2008) (quoting. Bell
4 Atlantic Corp v. Twombly, 550 U.S. 544, 557 (2007)). Plaintiffs “are required to allege some 5 ‘further circumstance pointing toward a meeting of the minds’” to make their claim plausible. In 6 re Late Fee & Over-Limit Fee Litig., 528 F. Supp. 2d 953, 962 (N.D. Cal. 2007) (citing Twombly,
7 550 U.S. at 557). Merely “anticipated” future conduct cannot form the basis for a § 1 violation.
8 Kendall, 518 F.3d at 1047.

10 Plaintiffs continue to make no showing of likely success because they have not and cannot 11 offer anything to show that the sale to Constellation was a sham.

12
13 b. Plaintiffs cannot show they will suffer irreparable harm if 14 injunctive relief is denied.

15 Plaintiffs fail to meet the irreparable harm prong. Not only are Plaintiffs not able to 16 identify any actual harm, but the vague harms to which they allude still do not merit injunctive 17 relief.

19 After inexplicable delay in initiating this litigation and seeking relief from the Court and 20 having already been denied injunctive relief in the form of a TRO, Plaintiffs’ further delay in 21 seeking preliminary injunctive relief undercuts their ability to satisfy their burden of showing
22 irreparable harm. See, e.g., Oakland Tribune, Inc. v. Chronicle Pub. Co., 762 F.2d 1374, 1377
23 (9th Cir. 1985) (“[A] long delay before seeking a preliminary injunction implies a lack of urgency
24 and irreparable harm.”); Puruganan v. HSBC Bank USA, Nat’l Ass’n, No. C 12-05168, 2012 U.S.
25 Dist. LEXIS 162208, at *9–10 (N.D. Cal. Nov. 13, 2012) (“Plaintiffs’ delay in seeking relief
26 undermines their claim of irreparable harm. . . . While delay in seeking a TRO is not dispositive, 27 it certainly militates against any claim of urgency . . . [and is] relevant in determining whether 28 relief is truly necessary.”) (citation and internal quotation marks omitted).

2 Plaintiffs make a baseless and unfounded assertion that the ABI/Modelo transaction will 3 result in “hundreds of millions of dollars of additional cost to Plaintiffs and consumers of beer in 4 the United States.” (Motion 18:1-3.) The wholly deficient declarations of six Plaintiffs do not 5 provide a factual basis for such an extreme allegation. Further, Plaintiffs can only assert harm for 6 themselves and not for unknown consumers. See Malaney v. UAL Corp., No. 3:10-CV-02858,
7 2010 WL 3790296, at *13 (N.D. Cal. Sept. 27, 2010) (citing United States v. Borden Co., 347
8 U.S. 514, 518 (1954)). Even if Plaintiffs were able to show money damages, the appropriate relief
9 would be monetary and not injunctive.

11 The Motion’s first articulated harm is that “threat of irreparable harm arises from the 12 difficulty in unscrambling an anticompetitive merger.” (Motion 15:17-18.) This is not an actual 13 harm but a threat of one. Moreover, a hold separate here would not remedy this claim. There is no 14 threat of the “eggs”—Modelo’s U.S. business—being “scrambled” with ABI. Those were 15 transferred to Constellation.

17 c. The balance of equities tips in Constellation’s favor.

18 The balance of equities favors Constellation even more now than it did over five weeks
19 ago when the Court denied the TRO. After seven months of investigation into the initial 20 transaction, and two additional months of investigation of the restructured transaction, DOJ
21 approved Constellation as the buyer of the Divestiture Assets. Constellation “promptly” acquired
22 those assets on June 7, 2013. (Ex. 4, S&O II.A; Ex. 3, PFJ Preamble and IV.B; (Ex. 5, Hetterich
23 Decl. ¶ 9.)

25 Constellation has begun fully integrating Crown and the Piedras Negras brewery into its 26 corporate structure. (Ex. 5, Hetterich Decl. ¶¶ 12-17.) It has commenced integration of all back-
27 office activities across the entire combined company. (Id. at ¶ 14.) Constellation has established a 28 new organizational structure, and has taken irreversible steps that affect its tax obligations going

1 forward. (Id.) In compliance with the PFJ, Constellation has begun operating the Piedras Negras
2 brewery, including activities related to its expansion. (Id. at ¶¶ 16-17.)

4 Plaintiffs attempt to minimize the effect of an injunction on Defendants by saying they 5 simply ask for compliance with the hold separate D.D.C. already has ordered. Defendants are not 6 under any hold separate obligations from the D.D.C. because the divestiture was completed. Any 7 other injunctive relief would create an extreme hardship. California v. American Stores, 492 U.S.
8 1301, 1306 (1989) (“To be sure, the cost of enjoining a merger before consummation is 9 staggering, and the cost of enjoining an already completed transaction even greater.”) (citation
10 omitted). Constellation has completed its acquisition of Modelo’s U.S. business and the balance 11 of equities tips sharply in its favor.

12
13 Plaintiffs present nothing to suggest that equity favors the relief they seek.<sup>4</sup> Plaintiffs have 14 continued to delay, pushing out the hearing calendar and willingly waiting two months for the 15 Court to hear its motion for injunctive relief. The three sets of new papers Plaintiffs filed since 16 losing their TRO only have rehashed their old, baseless arguments, offering no new evidence to 17 support their meritless litigation. Plaintiffs cannot even identify an actual source or amount of 18 money damages. Plaintiffs’ unfounded claims of harm cannot tip the balance, sharply or 19 otherwise, in their favor.

21 d. A hold separate does not serve the public interest.

22 Finally, Plaintiffs cannot make a clear showing by substantial proof that a hold separate 23 would be in the public interest. DOJ already has conducted a careful investigation and analysis of 24 the transactions, and ensured that the revised transactions make Constellation a vertically-
25 integrated, fully independent, and highly capable producer and seller (through Crown) of beer in

26 <sup>4</sup> Plaintiffs also still have not posted any bond (or indicated the bond they would post) and, being 27 nine individuals, are likely unable to post an adequate or proper bond. See Fed. R. Civ. P. 65(c); 28 15 U.S.C. § 26 (2006). Thus, Constellation will not be made whole for clear-cut and easily identifiable monetary damages from a hold separate in the event that a hold separate is wrongfully entered.

1 the United States, free from any indirect ownership, influence, or control by ABI. (Ex. 2, CIS VI.)
 2 DOJ has vindicated the public interest in Constellation's acquisition of Modelo's U.S. business.
 3 Although D.D.C. will be the final arbiter of the public interest of the PFJ, "a district court 'must
 4 accord deference to the government's predictions about the efficacy of its remedies.'" (Ex. 2, CIS
 5 VII at 23.) (quoting United States v. SBC Commc'ns, 489 F. Supp. 2d 1, 17 (D.D.C. 2007)).

 7 The public interest is best served by denying Plaintiffs' frivolous Motion and allowing 8 Constellation to focus its energy on integrating its new business and competing vigorously in the 9 U.S. beer marketplace.

 11 II. DEFENDANTS ARE COMPLYING WITH THE PFJ, INCLUDING ITS 12 FIREWALL PROVISIONS.

13 Plaintiffs additionally ask the Court to order Defendants to comply with the Firewall
 14 provisions found in Section XIII of the PFJ filed in D.D.C. on April 19, 2013. Those provisions 15 require that Constellation's Confidential Information is used by ABI/Modelo only to facilitate 16 services and supply under the Transition Services Agreement and the Interim Supply Agreement
 17 and that ABI/Modelo does not use that information to inform or shape its U.S. business. (Ex. 3, 18 PFJ XIII.) Constellation has a vested interest in ABI/Modelo's compliance with this section of the 19 PFJ and is actively engaged with DOJ as it monitors ABI/Modelo's compliance with the consent
 20 agreements. (Ex. 5, Hetterich Decl. ¶ 24.)

 22 The appropriate forum for enforcement of compliance with the Stipulation and Order and 23 PFJ is the D.D.C. This Court need not expend valuable judicial resources entering an order
 24 requiring Defendants to comply with an order already entered by another federal court.

 26 CONCLUSION

27 Plaintiffs' Motion for Injunction Seeking "Hold Separate" Order should be denied. Due to 28 the June 7 divestiture, Modelo's U.S. business assets are now wholly-owned by Constellation and

1 permanently separate from ABI. Even if the relief they seek were not unavailable, Plaintiffs once
2 again fail to meet the standard for injunctive relief. Moreover, Defendants are complying with the 3 Stipulation and Order and PFJ presently before the United States District Court for the District of 4 Columbia. Plaintiffs' Motion should be denied.
