12/31/2008	5	MINUTE entry before the Honorable Matthew F. Kennelly: This order applies to : all actions. Order No. 2: Due to the Judicial Panel on Multidistrict Litigation's intervening setting of its bimonthly session on the same date set by this Court for the initial conference in this case, and the likely involvement of several counsel of record in this case at the JPML's session, the Court hereby strikes the initial conference date of 1/29/09 and resets the initial conference to 1/30/09 at 1:30 p.m. The provisions of Order No. 1 otherwise remain in effect. The Court advises that it will not entertain further request to reset the date; given the number of counsel involved in this case, some conflicts in scheduling are inevitable. 10/25/2010	215	MINUTE entry before Honorable Matthew F. Kennelly: Defendants have moved to certify for appeal under 28 USC 1292(b) the Court's April 30, 2010 ruling granting plaintiffs leave to file a second amended complaint and rejecting defendants' contention that the proposed complaint failed to satisfy the requirements of Bell Atlantic Corp. v. Twombly and its progeny for pleading a viable claim of conspiracy to fix prices. The question of certification is close, and the Court does not doubt the correctness of its ruling. That said, the Court believes that the more prudent course is to grant the motion to certify. Though (as plaintiffs argue) the Seventh Circuit had issued dozens of decisions concerning the application of Twombly, the contours of the Supreme Court's ruling, and particularly its application in the present context, remain unclear. The Court believes this is a subject on which reasonable minds could differ. The question presented is controlling, because there is at least a decent chance (though it is by no means certain) that were a court to rule the second amended complaint deficient, the case would be over. Finally, there is a good chance that immediate review may materially advance the ultimate conclusion of the case. Though the Court previously suggested that focused and limited discovery might enable the parties to bring to a head the question of whether plaintiffs can actually prove a conspiracy, plaintiffs appear to be somewhat resistant to that and have served broader requests. As a result, there is some possibility that even the initial round of discovery that the Court contemplated might be time-consuming and expensive. For these reasons, the Court grants defendants' motion and certifies for appeal under section 1292(b) the question of whether plaintiffs' proposed second amended complaint states a claim upon which relief may be granted. The case is set for a status hearing on December 9, 2010 at 9:30 AM. (mk) (Entered: 10/25/2010)

The case is set for a status hearing by telephone on 12/17/10 at 9:00 a.m. Liaison counsel for plaintiff is directed to get liaison counsel for defendant on the telephone and call chambers at that date and time (one attorney per side is sufficient). The Court needs to get a report regarding the status (including the case number) of the interlocutory appeal. Mailed notices (gcy, ) (Entered: 12/10/2010)

12/30/2010	219	MINUTE entry before Honorable Matthew F. Kennelly: THIS ORDER APPLIES TO ALL CASES. Pretrial Order No. 41: The Court of Appeals accepted the proposed interlocutory appeal in this case and concluded that this Court ruled correctly that plaintiffs have stated a claim. The case is set for a scheduling conference in chambers (Room 2188) on 1/14/2011 at 8:30 a.m., for the purpose of setting a discovery schedule. Any counsel who wishes to attend may do so, but only liaison counsel are required to attend. The parties are directed to confer and attempt to agree on a proposed schedule and are directed to file a status report by 1/12/2011 setting forth their proposal(s). (mk) (Entered: 12/30/2010)

01/13/2011	221	MINUTE entry before Honorable Matthew F. Kennelly: Pretrial Order No. 42: The Court has reviewed the parties' joint status report concerning the setting of a discovery schedule. The Court previously concluded that the amended complaint stated a claim but believed that reasonable minds could differ about this and for that reason was concerned regarding the scope - or at least the initial scope - of discovery. To put it in a nutshell, because there was room for doubt on whether the Court had ruled correctly, the Court was inclined to conduct discovery in phases so that the subject that formed the primary basis for that room for doubt could be tested - namely, whether plaintiffs had adequately alleged a conspiracy. The Court's comments referenced by defendants in the status report were made in that context. In the interim, however, the Court granted defendants' request for an interlocutory appeal, and the Court of Appeals accepted the appeal and concluded that plaintiffs have, in fact, stated a claim in light of Bell Atlantic v. Twombly and its progeny. The Court therefore agrees with plaintiffs that the legal landscape of the case has been redrawn. Accordingly, the Court does not believe at this time that it is necessary or appropriate to conduct discovery in phases as previously proposed. For this reason, counsel should come to tomorrow's scheduling conference prepared to set a schedule for the completion of all pretrial discovery, including expert discovery. 01/22/2012	358	MINUTE entry before Honorable Matthew F. Kennelly: THIS ORDER APPLIES TO ALL CASES. Pretrial Order No. 62: The Court grants plaintiffs' motion to compel CTIA 342 in part and denies it in part. CTIA is to promptly designate a witness or witnesses to testify for a total of four hours concerning: (1) CTIA's policies and procedures for the handling of electronic documents from 7/1/02 through 12/31/09; (2) the handling of Mark Desautels' e-mails and other electronic documents following his death; and (3) the relation of the activities covered by topic 2 to CTIA's policies and practices for handling electronic documents. The Court understands these topics to include (but not to be limited to) what Mr. Desautels' electronic documents consisted of at the time of his death, including the overall size of the mailbox, and what steps CTIA took to understand what the mailbox contained before choosing search terms and culling and deleting documents. The Court denies plaintiffs' request for costs. (mk) (Entered: 01/22/2012)
