11/05/2021	226	ORDER. For the joint discovery letter, MDL Dkt. No. 134, in the absence of an agreement between the parties, each plaintiff group may designate up to 10 topics for Rule 30(b)(6) examinations, as stated in the Court's Standing Order for Discovery in Civil Cases. Google may designate up to 10 topics for each plaintiff group. Each deposition will be taken within the time provided by Rule 30(d)(1), irrespective of whether the witness is testifying personally or as a Rule 30(b)(6) designee, or both. The Court will consider additional time upon a showing that a witness has substantial personal and designated topic knowledge such that a single 7-hour day would not be enough for both. To ensure adequate witness preparation, the party noticing a Rule 30(b)(6) deposition must designate the topics for examination no less than 21 court days before the deposition date. The parties may modify any of these conditions by joint agreement. Signed by Judge James Donato on 11/5/2021. (This is a text-only entry generated by the court. 02/15/2023	370	ORDER. For Google's production of additional chats, see MDL Dkt. Nos. 440, 451, Google must at minimum produce all chats that have been preserved for Custodians 1 through 383 (as identified in Dkt. No. 429-2) that are: (1) responsive to any search term the parties have agreed to in this litigation (as proposed by Google in Dkt. No. 451 at 6), OR (2) responsive to these additional terms: "sensitive," "history off," "history is not off," "history on," "history is on," "off the record," or "on the record." To be clear, for the latter set of terms, Google may not limit its production to only those chats that discussed "turning history 'on' or 'off' in connection with the topics of this case or in connection with [a] legal hold, investigation, regulatory proceeding, or litigation." Dkt. No. 451 at 8. The responsive chats must be turned over without the additional limitation of being responsive to the search terms in this case or being connected to a legal hold, investigation, regulatory proceeding, or litigation. Google must complete the production of these chats by February 24, 2023, at 5:00 p.m. California time at the latest. This deadline will not be extended. Google may conduct a responsiveness and/or privilege review only to the extent it can do that and still meet this deadline. To the extent Google decides against a privilege review, including for any subsets of custodians, plaintiffs will agree to a "broad non-waiver agreement allowing the clawback of any privileged material," as they have proposed. Dkt. No. 451 at 4. Signed by Judge James Donato on 2/15/2023. (This is a text-only entry generated by the court.
